

The Owner's Room

A critical thinking space for business owners

The Owner's Room gives owners time and space to think critically about their role and provides a framework designed to bring clarity to their ambition.

Finding time for a fresh perspective

Leadership research shows that clarity will do more to unlock the discretionary effort of your key stakeholders – the people who have the greatest impact on delivering your goals – than anything else.

As an owner, it is critical that you provide your stakeholders – whether that is other owners, family members, the board, management team, customers or employees – with clarity about your values, your ambitions and their role in achieving these.

However, we recognise that addressing the day-to-day demands of owning a business makes it difficult to prioritise time to reflect on your role as an owner.

That is why we developed the Owner's Room.

A critical thinking space

The Owner's Room is a dedicated, stimulating and interactive space for a facilitated discussion where you will be able to think critically and reflect on your ownership issues and ambitions.

A focused agenda

During an Owner's Room session, you will be guided through a thought provoking discussion covering four core areas:

- Your ownership journey so far
- Where the business is today and your assumptions about the future
- Your ownership goals and when you want achieve them
- The importance of leadership and bringing clarity to your stakeholders.

When to use The Owner's Room

You can benefit from the Owner's Room at any stage in your ownership lifecycle.

However, it is particularly useful when you need help managing the opportunities and challenges of responding to change, e.g. a change of leadership or owner.

The Owners Room is facilitated by highly experienced and specially trained Grant Thornton Partners, supported by your existing Relationship Partner.
